A LINE O' CHEER EACH DAY O' THE YEAR

First printing of an original poem, written init for The Washington Herald.

By John Kendrick Baugs.

THE CHEERFUL SONG. Let others sing of death and war. Of conquests by the hosts of fear: Of stricken hearts in sorrow sore-I'll still sing on of Hope and Cheer. In strains of Joy I'll cast my song. And heartily each day I'll strive In times too full of Hate and Wrong To keep the Fires of Love slive! (Copyright, 1917.)

Has anybody heard from William Jennings Bryan lately?

She had a dream of world-empire.

Beyond all bounds assounding!

For forty years she were her plans,

The whole wide world euromating.

Her every step up Wisdom's way.

Was for this purpose taken.

That she might use her wits for war.

Before the world should waken!

She toiled and toiled like white ant pests— No one her whome suspecting! Her love of progress was so great, We spent ourselves respecting! We worshipped with her: were sincere; Nor saw the dagger gleaming the held behind her while she prayed— For morth-page we were described!

The Task of Capital.

Mr. Amos Pinchot and his followers from Tooley street, U. S. A., "We, the People of America," would have the war paid for in short order no matter how long it might last. In order to show the absurdity it is necessary to revert to hyperbole. They would have Mr. Rockefeller, Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Frick, Mr. Astor, Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr. Morgan and a few others who are suffering from dropsical incomes, tied to the stake and have literally roasted out of them all but enough to sustain the bare necessities of life. With this money they would fight the war, assuming that if they got it once they could continue the roasting process at the end of each fiscal year.

Of course they lose sight of the fact that there are certain other questions to be considered, such as the sustaining of the investment market, the steady employment of industry, and the elaboration of the schemes of production to meet the abnormal demands which are to be made upon the farms, the factories, the mines and the furnaces, with which these men have something to do. The fact that the incomes of the men of wealth go in large measure back into the business, and that there is an increasing development to be fostered in this country, makes no difference to the gentlemen from Tooley street. The fact that confiscating the profits of a business which has taken a lifetime to develop may immediately cause that business to be abandoned is not to be placed in the scales. Tooley street, never having established a great industry, nor having ventured its unearned increment in upbuilding, knows nothing of natural

The business interests of this country have certain responsibilities which they not shirking. One of these is to see that industry goes ahead. Another s to see that the liberty loans, not merely the first, but the second and the third, and countless others, if the war is to last several years, are all successfully placed without great shock to the country and without impairment of credit. Another is to see that the money needed under proper considerations of relation of loan to revenue and on business prin-

There is still another duty. All Latin America now looks to the United States as its banker. Enormous sums must be supplied to Central and South America ton tea parties. But they are not of the from time to time as well as to the entente allies. This duty capital can and will perform if it is not handicapped by Those who are anxious to follow the President are reminded that he bought a tractive confiscation has fallen of its own weight. Unwise confiscation of the rewards of industry, to the detriment of wages and dividends alike, should folin ree; life too much like real life, ac- low. There should be an end of false principles of taxation which will make shead without running on the shoals.

world wars have been fought for independence and for liberty, and your heroes have been such men as George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and Abraham deal all around; the government, no less agton, Thomas Jefferson, and Abraham deal all around; the government, no less and all around the nation itself, must be stripped than the nation itself, must be stripped.

> There is no tendency so far, except in a few newspaper which cannot forget their partisanship, to judge the "Washington crowd" hastily or criticise unduly. The public is caim because it be-lieves much of what it is told. Nevertheless, if certain politicians in control in this Capital knew what the leading business men of the nation thought of them they would be shocked and mortifled at the idea of having to call upon them for assistance.

PRESENT QUEEN'S PAGEANT.

The Woman Wake-Earners' Association presented last night at John Wesley Church, Fourtenth and Corcoran streets, as a benefit a very interesting and spectacular "Queen's Pageant." The countries represented in the pageant included the United States, China, Japan, Italy and Africa.

"FRENCH NIGHT" SUCCESSFUL. A very successful "French Night" en-tertainment was given last night at the Central High School by the pupils of Mile. Marie L. Hercent. Sixty pupils in coetume took part in the singing of "La Marsellaise" which was one of the ost attractive features of the enter-Forward Washington.

As though preconceived, the Forward washington meeting of the greater are bobbing up with such frequency that the discoverers of perpetual motion will seen have to look to thefer laurels.

The "Vigilance Committees" which Attorney General Gregory asks for may be called upon to emulate the tactics of the Vigilantes of '49 whom Bret Harte made famous.

Well, that Forward Washington movement is off to a great start. Why not as the next step in advance give it a permanent nome in keeping with the high class of men who comprise it.

they should not have been slaughtered, and that was also the case with pigs. The result is that there is a rapidly diminishing supply of meat cattle and pigs in New York State and it would seem that some legislative prohibition or possibly some national control is necessary to prevent the slaughtering of animals at least a time when they should be well-cared for.
